

About Radio Five-O-Plus, 93.3FM

The station was established in 1993 to deliver the music of yesterday, today. From its humble beginning, broadcasting to a few streets in Umina, the station now broadcasts across the Central Coast, throughout the Hunter, the northern suburbs of Sydney and into the Blue Mountains, from its modern studios in North Gosford.

Staffed solely by volunteers, Radio Five-O-Plus broadcasts 24/7. The station is not just for those aged beyond 50, but for anyone who appreciates music from 1940 onwards. We feature a diversity of music from yesterday to modern day, but specialising in easy listening music that brings back fond memories.

It's a misconception that the station is only for mature people, as we are happy to have volunteers from any age group. Our only requirement is that you love music and want to give your time and energy to such a great cause.

Why not arrange a visit to the station for yourself, for a group of friends, or for an organisation that you are a member of, so that you can get a first hand view of the great work carried out by our dedicated volunteers, and learn more about our station.
